It was the first time we had a real conversation, and then we went on a walk together, and I said, "I want to know about this."

[Image] So, let's go ahead and say that it was a big hit.

[Image] And I know this is just an idea, but the fact that they both attended an actual wedding was pretty amazing.

We had so much fun, and it was very much a bonding experience.

[Image] And when we started to go to my room together, the reception was going pretty quiet.

We were all pretty excited for our wedding night.

"We all just said, "I'm not ready."

Today I got a terrible experience at the Crown Casino, I went to watch a match t here, after it finished I got confused about the exit where my car was parked.

So being 100% sober my boyfriend and I tried to get back inside, to find the correct exit, but one of the guard said that "my boyfriend was using truck pants so he wasn't allow to go inside", we explained several times in a p olite way the situation about the exit and the fact that we were just watching a match there (euro cup) because we are from Italy, but the guy insisted that we weren't allowed, in the middle of this situation a Asian girl try to get ins ide as well, wearing the same pants that my boyfriend was, and the guard said th at it was fine, so I gave him this example and he refuse to help us, when we wer e just trying to go through the casino to get the correct exit till our car.

It was definitely a racist and discrimination situation against us, because I c an't find another explanation if 5 minutes before we were just there, and we just took the wrong exit when the guy saw us going out from it, we came back less than two minutes after that.

On the top of that the Asian girl wearing the same pants it shows an evident racist and discrimination situation without reason.

To never come back.
